HISTORICAL SKETCH:

Janos, a small town in northern Chihuahua State, was the site of a Spanish presidio, or military post, in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. It continued as a military site during the Mexican period and is best known for its role in trying to control Apache Indians in the region. These documents describe part of the history of Janos, the local government, and the church.

ARRANGEMENT:

Filmed in approximate chronological order, as found, and numbered as rolls 1-37.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE:

The microfilm collection, with documents dating from 1728 to 1858, contains correspondence, printed circulars, some church records, and documents relating to the business of operating a military outpost.

PROVENANCE:

Rex Gerald, Director of the El Paso Centennial Museum at Texas Western College (now The University of Texas at El Paso) found 37,000 documents stored in the sacristy of the Janos, Chihuahua, church in 1961. These documents describe part of the history of Janos, the local government and the church. Archivist Leon Metz and Frank Scott of the UTEP Library, accompanied by Roger Flores of Comgraphix and two students, microfilmed the collection in 1969.

RESTRICTIONS:

None.

LITERARY RIGHTS:

Permission to publish material from the Janos Presidio Collection, MF498, must be obtained from the C.L. Sonnichsen Special Collections Department, the University of Texas at El Paso Library.

NOTES TO RESEARCHERS:

All documents are in Spanish or Latin. The documents, dating 1728 – 1858, were in poor condition when they were microfilmed in 1969, and the environment where the filming took place was not ideal. The collection is also known as Historical archives, 1810-1856: manuscripts and documents of Janos and is cataloged as OCLC # 37150036.

The container list here was generated from notes on boxes of microfilm for the Janos Presidio collection, MF498. Most is in W. H. Timmons' handwriting. Sometimes we could not decipher the words or names because of stamps, messy corrections, etc. Those names that are just guesses have (?) after them.

Another collection of documents relating to Janos and the presidio located there may be found in the Benson Latin American Collection, University of Texas at Austin, as Records of the Presidio de San Felipe y Santiago de Janos with a description at <http://lanic.utexas.edu/project/lucasalaman/mexicanarchives/Janos.html>
